

Having worked closely with some of our Nation's finest Architects and General Contractors over the past 35 years, Jim Gerold stands out as an extraordinary talent. In addition to being diligent and capable, Gerold possesses a wealth of knowledge and experience which is evident in structural integrity as well as the aesthetic finishing of the truly exceptional residential properties which he has created.

Despite the dramatic decline in craftsmanship and quality in the U.S. housing market in general, Gerold remains a beacon of excellence, and one of the few professionals I would want to contract and manage the building of my own home.
