

We will be eternally grateful for crossing paths with Jim Gerold, and entrusting him with one of the most important projects we will ever undertake. Jim's outstanding qualities are integrity and pride. He approaches issues honestly and openly, and approaches construction with conviction about craftsmanship and materials.

Jim was very hands on and accessible with our project, fully engaged in all phases from site location to finishing touches. The subcontractors he uses did quality and professional work, because Jim chose them, and worked closely with them.

Building a house is a long, emotional, and physically demanding project. Doing it with man like Jim Gerold made it extremely satisfying and rewarding. We love our house, had few problems which Jim completely stood by, and feel that we received great value. Seven years after moving in, we are still in regular touch with Jim(not problem related), and that does say something.

Feel free to call, or take a tour(with Jim).
